Quick Facts about Young Voters in Oregon: The Midterm Election Year 2006

By Mark Hugo Lopez, Karlo Barrios Marcelo, and Jared Sagoff
Updated June 2007

The 2006 midterm election was the second major election in a row that saw an increase in the electoral participation of young people ages 18-29. Between 2002 and 2006, the percentage of eligible young people who voted increased by 3 percentage points to 25 percent, the single largest increase among all age groups nationally. Similarly, while youth electoral participation improved between 2002 and 2006 nationally, in Oregon, the youth voter turnout rate rose 2 percentage points from 30 percent in 2002 to 32 percent in 2006. Overall, Oregon ranked 9th (tied with ME, MO, and VA) among all states and the District of Columbia in 2006, down from 8th in 2002, yet was seven percentage points higher than the nation as a whole.

This fact sheet reports the characteristics of young voters for the state of Oregon, including estimates of the number of young voters, and voter turnout rates in 2006 and 2002 for various sub-groups of young people.
