By Mark Hugo Lopez, Karlo Barrios Marcelo, and Jared Sagoff<sup>1</sup>
Updated June 2007

The 2006 midterm election was the second major election in a row that saw an increase in the electoral participation of young people ages 18-29. Between 2002 and 2006, the percentage of eligible young people who voted increased by 3 percentage points to 25 percent, the single largest increase among all age groups nationally.<sup>2</sup> However, while youth electoral participation improved between 2002 and 2006 nationally, in South Carolina, the youth voter turnout rate fell 3 percentage points from 27 percent in 2002 to 24 percent in 2006. Overall, South Carolina ranked 33rd among all states and the District of Columbia in 2006, down from 13th in 2002, and was one percentage point lower than the nation as a whole.
